

Inclusion Live 2024

Monday 23 January to Friday 27 January

Monday 23 January 2023 – 3:30pm – 4:15pm

Take your shot - how photography can bring everyone into the game delivered by Show and Tell

Listen to an alternative way you can get your young people involved in sport. The session will provide you the chance to hear from a young person on how they have used sport film to access the magic of sport, a teacher on how it can fit into the curriculum and the effects they have seen on pupils and someone from the Show and Tell team on the background and context.

Tuesday 24 January – 3:30pm-4:15pm

Disability Sports Awareness Delivered by young people from the Multi Sports Council

Multi Sports Council in Essex brings young people together to help break down the perceptions towards children with SEND and mental health difficulties in schools and their wider communities. George and Mason who are young people from the Multi Sports Council talk about their experiences of sport in school, how to include them and why it is so important. The session will allow practitioners to interact and ask questions to the young people.

Wednesday 25 January – 3:30pm-4:15pm

Whitfield Aspen Schools: Dover based school that brings together mainstream pupils and Special school pupils in a truly inclusive learning environment Delivered by the headteacher and head of School KS1 at the school

Hear about the unique set up from this amazing school in Devon where learners from mainstream and special schools are integrated together. The school's strength lies in the way they create that truly inclusive environment for all young people with the ethos of learning together to enable children to make great progress.

Thursday 26 January – 3:30pm – 4:15pm

An introduction to inclusive co-creation Delivered by YST consultants

Pupil voice is something we know we want to include in our settings so this session will provide you with advice and guidance on how you can start that conversation with the young people you work with in an inclusive environment.

Friday 27 January – 12pm-12:45pm

Youth Panel Hear from a small group of young people

Back by popular demand from last year we will be hosting a small panel of young people in education who will talk about their experience of school sport and physical activity and share their leadership journey. The session will also provide opportunities for audience participation through a question-and-answer section with the young people.
